

Get to Know Our New Regional Executive Directors!

Elizabeth Ariemma, Regional Executive Director, Fairview Park Region

What do you like about working at Capital Caring Health?

The great people who work here! An atmosphere of caring and support while manifesting our purpose, mission, and values.

What are you excited about or hoping to accomplish in your new role as a Regional Executive Director? I am most excited about the opportunity to raise our delivery of holistic care and for our staff to have the support needed to do their best work possible.

What is something interesting about you or that you enjoy doing in your time off? Currently I am completing my last year in an international program for Classical Homeopathy in between spending time with my grandchildren, attending soccer games, and gardening (really, I guess you could say weed pulling). My favorite place to be is in nature. I live on a small farm with my husband, two horses, two dogs and a know-it-all cat.

Patricia A. Bishop, RN, MSN, CHPN, Regional Executive Director, Western Virginia Region

What do you like about working at Capital Caring Health?

As a nurse and a leader, I find joy and fulfillment in working with people, whether it is patients, family members, staff and coworkers, or the community. At Capital Caring Health we get to work with the best! A good day is ending the day feeling like you helped to make a difference for someone.

What are you excited about or hoping to accomplish in your new role as a Regional Executive Director? While the role of Regional Executive Director is not new, some of the areas of responsibilities are new. In this role I hope to work with our team members to focus on the quality, regulatory compliance, and patient/family satisfaction of the care delivered as well as recruitment and retention of our excellent clinical care teams to ensure that we are meeting our Mission, Vision, and Core Values.

What is something interesting about you or that you enjoy doing in your time off?

During time off I enjoy crafting and attending craft shows, making jewelry, reading, spending time with family, and my two rescue Labrador Retrievers. I also do consultative work for a national hospice consulting agency providing clinical record audits and reviews.

Lisa Robinson, Regional Executive Director, Maryland

What do you like about working at Capital Caring Health?

Our team! It is wonderful working at an organization that cares about each other and our patients.

What are you excited about or hoping to accomplish in your new role as a Regional Executive Director? I'm excited about growing the number of families we serve in Maryland and making sure we are there to provide care whenever our community needs us.

What is something interesting about you or that you enjoy doing in your time off? I enjoy spending time with friends and family.

Jerilyn Rodgers, Regional Executive Director, DC

What do you like about working at Capital Caring Health?

The best part of working at Capital Caring Health is the people. I have been a part of several amazing teams and am proud of the excellent care we provide to patients and families. The reason I've stayed in this organization for so many years is that I really like everyone, and I believe we live our core values every day.

What are you excited about or hoping to accomplish in your new role as a Regional Executive Director? DC has an extremely strong team, and I am excited to be a part of this exceptional group. Working in DC will be a change for me because I'm more used to Virginia. But I am looking forward to meeting new people, learning new things and being a part of providing the very best care with my new team.

What is something interesting about you or that you enjoy doing in your time off? I enjoy reading, yoga, being outside and spending time with my three young adult children and two bunnies, Goose and Ginny!
